THE DEPTH FINDER

Luke 5:4—"Put out into the deep and let down your nets for a catch." - Jesus directs us if we listen.

VOLUME 7, MAY

A Communication for Deep C's Members

MAY 10, 2021

DEEP C'S DIRECTOR - STEVE CRUIKSHANK

Hello all,

Just returned from my annual trip to Sitka Alaska. Mike Mudgett says hi to everyone. This year I went with Dennis Carpenter, Mike & Brian Stilwell, Dave Johnson, and Bob Bennett. We did not get to go last year due to covid, so this year was really anticipated by all. We ended up catching King Salmon, Yellow Eye, Short Rakers, Ling Cod, Black Cod, Rock Fish and Halibut. We each brought home close to 100 lbs. of fish. The first 3 days were nice. Hardly any wind and 1-to-2-foot seas. That allowed us to go Black Cod fishing.

The reason you can only fish them during calm seas is because they live in 1200 to 2000 ft. We use electric reels and 3 circle hooks on each line. The line must be as straight up and down as possible so you can tell when there is a bite. So, you do not anchor you have to use a motor to keep you over your lines. When you have a bite, you push the reel up button till you hear the reel bog down. Then you know you have a fish on. We then let the line go to the bottom and try to repeat the process a total of 3 times. When you think you have 3 fish on you can push the reel up button and the reel will automatically reel up the fish. The reel up process takes about 15 to 20 minutes depending how deep you are fishing. The next 2 days really blew with 8-to-10-foot seas. We still caught fish but no where near as fun as the first 3 days.

We arrived in Minneapolis at 11:30 pm. We got our bags and headed to the exit. There were 2 Minneapolis police officers standing at the exit doors. I asked them what time they get off duty? They replied 6:30am. I asked if I gave them some frozen Halibut could they keep it cold until they got off work? They said they would think of something. So, I opened one of my boxes of fish and gave each one of them a package of Halibut. About 2 pounds. They were overly excited and said thank you several times. I said that I appreciated what they were doing and thanked them for their service. I told them there were still people who support them. In the future I plan to pay it forward to as many Police Officers as I can.

Your brother in Christ,

Steve

High C's Fish Camp Updates

"We will not hide them from their children, but tell to the coming generation the glorious deeds of the LORD, and His might, and the wonders He has done." Psalm 78:4

For the theme this year, we will be discussing God's Sovereignty and man's responsibility, taken from Luke 5:4-6 "And when He had finished speaking, He said to Simon, 'Put out into the deep and let down your nets for a catch". With this theme, and the meat of this verse, we will speak with the campers of the importance of trusting Jesus and His wisdom in all areas of life, even during those times when it doesn't make sense.

Within our fishing camps, we continue to provide a safe place for deep fellowship of kids and guides, try to foster long-term relationships, and demonstrate the gospel through word and action. We don't know if the nation will ever return to "normal", as it once was, but we have the assurance that Jesus will never change, no matter the circumstance, He can always be trusted, His return is very soon, and that is what we want most to convey to the campers.

As we are anticipating our MN governor to relax current Covid restrictions, we have plans to hold these 13 camps this summer:

- June 7-11: Day Camp #1 (metro lakes)--open
- June 10: Disability Camp #1 (Medicine)--full
- June 14-18: Day Camp #2 (metro lakes)---open
- June 17: Disability Camp #2 (Medicine)--full
- June 20-25: Green Lake (overnight)--full
- June 28-July 2: Leech Lake (overnight)--full
- July 6-9: Day Camp #3 (metro lakes)---open
- July 14-18: Adult/Child (overnight)--open
- July 26-30: Camp Fish (overnight)--full
- July 27-Aug 1: BWCA (overnight)--open
- Aug 2-6: Day Camp #4 (metro lakes)--open
- Aug 9-13: Ironwood Springs (overnight)--full
- Aug 15-17: Catfish (overnight)--open

May 18th is our annual camp guide training. We are meeting from 5:30-9p.

May 24th is our CPR/First Aid training. We are meeting from 4-9p, at Mercy Road Church, 12156 Nicollet Ave, Burnsville.

We praise God for all who have stressed an interest in being a guide this summer. He has provided all we need to run the summer fish camps. We are thankful to these men and women who have made this commitment.

Pro Fishing Tips

May 2021

by Dwight Nelson

Welcome to spring! After a seemingly long hard water season we are finally at open water season again. I for one am really looking forward to it.

So what is coming up?

Crappie season is here and walleye/northern pike season will be opening in MN in a few days. If you just can't wait, head over to WI. Their walleye season opened May 1. The MN season doesn't open until May 15. The DNR even seems to feel guilty about such a late start with this prominent message on their web site: "Fishing seasons open for walleye, bass, northern pike and lake trout on Saturday, May 15. This year's date is the latest possible opener under Minnesota statute, which sets the fishing opener as the Saturday two weeks prior to the Saturday of Memorial Day weekend." OK! There you have it!

Crappies:

I have come to believe that temperature is the single most important factor in fishing. Crappies start spawning at 55-57°F. The range is wide with an upper limit of around 75 degrees. Once water has warmed above 50°F, crappies will start moving from deeper water into shallow water. While some anglers think that is for spawning, it is really for chasing food which tends to move toward the warmer (shallow) water. If the weather is stable, crappies will stay shallow longer.

While hard to find, you might run across sites that show water temperature via satellite. In this graphic from May 3 of Lake Minnetonka, you can see the North side of Wayzata bay has warmed significantly (light blue) vs. the rest of the main lake body.

Some friends have an interesting dilemma this time of year at their cabin. For some reason, crappies like their dock and spawn under it. My friends would try to fish around the dock or between it and the boat trying not to let anyone else on the lake see them. They've gotten away with it for years!

If you read fishing columns that tell you to fish shallow dark bottoms, the reason is because the sun's rays will heat up that part of the lake a little more. The north side of the lake usually gets a little more sun this time of the year and warms accordingly. Even a 1 degree difference will make all the difference in the world for crappies. If you have your choice of lakes, look for one that is perhaps not the clearest. Those will warm faster as well. GoogleEarth will show you that but the U of M has a web site that shows water clarity by satellite: <https://lakes.rs.umn.edu/#27013300>

Fish with Flu Flu jigs, jigheads with small plastics (like Clam Makis), a small crappie minnow or even a plain red or pink hook. Start shallow and go deeper if you don't find 'em.

Walleye:

Walleye is undoubtedly my favorite species to fish for in May and June. Water temps have now risen to post-spawn levels (above 50°F). (Water temps are tracking last year's temps, perhaps even a bit cooler.)

You might find large females shallow; more likely you will find males still hanging around spawning areas. Since the water is still a bit cooler, slip bobbering is a great way to approach walleyes in May. I love using jumbo leeches since panfish typically don't bother them unless they are really on the attack!

Jigging with a fathead minnow or even better a shiner is a great way to approach walleyes too. Keep in mind the water is still on the cool side so slow down the presentation a bit. That is not to say walleyes won't go after blade baits. Pull them back to the boat slowly with a steady cadence. They are effective especially in stained/murky waters. They put out a ton of vibration.

If you can't wait until opener, head to Pensaukee, WI. They're catching 16-20" average walleyes pulling Flicker Shads or crawler harnesses 6-10' down.

Blessings and Tight Lines!

May Special Needs Column

Greetings from the director's desk I hope April was good to you. Over the past few months, we have been learning about pro fishermen and getting their stories. Last month we dove into Kevin Van Dam and hopefully you learned a thing or two from him. This month its time to learn about a guy who is featured on KFAN FM 100.3 every Saturday morning during Fan Outdoors - Tackle Terry Tuma. According to <https://www.fishinghalloffamemn.com/hall-of-famers/terry-tuma/> Terry Tuma was Born in 1942 in Northfield, Minn., Terry Tuma was destined to be one of the most prolific outdoor communicators the Upper Midwest has ever known. At age 4, Tuma began joining his parents for outings on nearby lakes, sometimes when the water was open and just as often when the water was frozen. Tuma likes to share with audiences the story of his father using an ice spud to create fishing holes. He would start with a 3-foot square on the top of the ice and end up with a 6-inch hole on the bottom.

Raised on a farm, Tuma graduated from Northfield High in 1960, joined the Army during the Berlin Crisis, and when he returned home, he decided to get involved in outdoors communications related to fishing. Fortunately for Tuma, his new job at a car dealership allowed him some flexibility and he began offering seminars and calling into segments on local radio stations.

More than 40 years ago, Tuma took a pro-staff position with a fishing tackle manufacturer and began doing seminars and radio. Twenty-seven years ago, he decided to take his part-time program and turn it into a full-time career and he went to work for Glenn Meyer at Outdoor News.

In Tuma's early days there was no model for those pursuing an occupation as an outdoor communicator. Individuals like Ron Lindner, Gary Roach and Terry Tuma eventually set the standard that defines this line of work. In one of his early seminars for Larry's Live Bait in St. Paul, Tuma shared the stage with Ron Lindner, and they used a flip-chart to illustrate their message. Tuma's program progressed to a slide projector to project images on a screen. The presentations became a bit more complicated with overhead projectors and now computers with video and animation. What Tuma has discovered is that over the years anglers who attended his seminars appreciated the clean, informative presentation, and all they really wanted was the information to be understandable, easy to grasp, and specific. Today, according to Tuma, we're seeing a shift in how anglers get their information, yet there are anglers who still enjoy getting out and attending seminars and in-store promotions, especially if you have a good presentation, you can still draw a crowd. Tuma has proven this even today. At the ice fishing show Tuma draws crowds of more than 200 anglers. This year he filled Minneapolis and Milwaukee sportshows seminar auditoriums. Over the 40-plus years Tuma has conducted seminars he conservatively estimates he has done more than 4,000 presentations.

Tuma has never limited his outdoor communications program to just seminars. He has been on the forefront of radio and today participates in segments for over 40 affiliates including Outdoor News Radio and FAN Outdoors. At least two of his current affiliates have been with him for his entire career; that's over 40 years.

Tuma has been featured on many television shows and currently can be seen regularly on Minnesota Bound and Due North Outdoors.

Print media has also been a staple of Tuma's program. For the past 25 years he has been part of Outdoor News, and he has published a weekly tip. Tuma has also been featured in many major publications including In-Fisherman and North American Fisherman.

They say you can't teach an old dog new tricks, but that is not true of Tuma. He currently incorporates today's new media options into his program by writing a regular blog on the Outdoor News website that is also linked to Facebook and a Twitter feed.

Asked if he'll ever quit trying to educate anglers, Tuma replies he is having too much fun to slow down. He is still pulling more than 200 anglers to his ice fishing seminars at the St. Paul show and fills seminar auditoriums all over the Upper Midwest.

While Tuma may have decided early on that he would focus on the Upper Midwest and southern Canada, today's unlimited range of web-based media and his frequent appearances on national television programs has projected his influence far beyond these boundaries. According to Tuma, there are still many anglers who want to learn and they will use every tool at their disposal to gain that information. It is his goal to provide those tools.

Tuma has been, and still is, a pioneer in outdoor communications. He has introduced programs that never existed until he brought them to the forefront. Tuma is indeed a great candidate for induction, and he fits the profile of someone who belongs in the Minnesota Fishing Hall of Fame.

So I hope you enjoy this read because I sure did. What would you like to learn about in June? Contact me and let me know.

Stay happy and healthy and I will visit with you in June.

Handicapped Director, Tyler Pinor

GARLIC HERB GRILLED SALMON

Garlic Herb Grilled Salmon - moist and juicy salmon with garlic, herbs, olive oil and lemon marinade. This is the best grilled salmon recipe ever and takes only 8 minutes on gas grill.

HOW TO GRILL SALMON?

Summer is just around the corner and I have the best grilled salmon recipe for you. I am sure you have grilled shrimp, chicken, and steak but how to cook salmon on gas grill?

I will teach you exactly how, from the cuts of salmon to use, marinade and rub to grill time. This grilled salmon is one of the best salmon recipes ever!

HOW TO SEASON SALMON FOR GRILLING?

For moist, juicy, and tender salmon, use the following grilled salmon marinade.

Olive oil. It seals in the juice and moisture inside the salmon.

Minced garlic rids potential fishy smell.

Herbs such as Italian basil and parsley. Both herbs impart an earthy aroma to the fish.

Lemon juice.

Salt and ground black pepper.

Grilled salmon marinade in a white bowl.

Marinate for no longer than 30 minutes. The acid in the lemon juice will “cook” and turn the surface of the salmon opaque or white in color, as if it had been cooked with heat.

You can also use my homemade dry rub to rub the spice blends onto the fish before grilling. The result will be equally delicious.

Healthy and best grilled salmon recipe with lemon, garlic, herbs, and olive oil, with juice oozing out from the grilled salmon fillet.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

WHAT CUT OF SALMON TO USE?

I used second cut, as pictured above. Second cut is a meaty section of salmon. The fillet is great for most cooking methods but hold up particularly well to grilling. Salmon top loin or loin are also excellent choices. Grilled salmon fillet poked by a fork, revealing the juicy fillet.

SALMON GRILL TIME

How long to cook salmon on grill? For second cut salmon in this recipe, I grilled at the temperature of 350°F, with the skin side down for 4 minutes uninterrupted. Flip the salmon over and cook for another 4 minutes. The length of time depends on the thickness of the fish. You can also rely on visual cues. As soon as the white stuff starts to ooze or seep out from salmon, it is cooked.

The white stuff is called albumin, or coagulated protein. Albumin gets pushed out of the muscle fibers of salmon as it cooks, rising to the surface and forming the white “gunk.”

CAN I GRILL SALMON IN FOIL?

Yes, you can! The salmon will cook beautifully and stay moist, but it won't have the chars and smoky flavors.

CAN I USE A PAN TO GRILL SALMON?

Absolutely. You can place the salmon on a cast-iron grill pan and place it on top of a gas grill to cook the salmon. You can also cook it on the stove top by using a grill pan.

HOW MANY CALORIES PER SERVING?

This recipe is only 228 calories per serving.

WHAT DISHES TO SERVE WITH THIS RECIPE?

This meal is best served with a sauce such as dill sauce or a dipping sauce like Asian sweet chili sauce. This dish also goes well with many side dishes.

Here are Prayer & Praise submissions for April. 2021.
